“Purpose: The Calling That Won’t Leave You Alone”

“When examining your purpose for life, don’t allow the fact you don’t know how it will come to reality stop you from pursuing it! Let that sink in.”

Franklin McQuaid

There comes a moment in everyone’s life—sometimes loud, sometimes quiet—where the heart begins to ask the deeper questions:

“Why am I here?”

“What am I supposed to do with this life?”

“Does any of this... really matter?”

And in that sacred silence, if you listen closely, there’s a whisper. Not from the world. Not from fear. But from your soul. From God Himself. It says... “There’s more.”

So, what is, purpose?

Purpose isn’t always a lightning bolt. It’s not always about a platform, a pulpit, or a paycheck. Sometimes, it starts as a burden you can’t shake. A desire to fix something broken. A restlessness when you see pain go unhealed, injustice go untouched, or dreams go unrealized—not just in your life, but in others’.

You ask:

Was I born with a purpose?

Yes.

Can I choose one based on my heart's desire to help?

Yes, again.

Purpose is both your design and your decision. God placed something within you when you were created—a seed. But whether that seed takes root depends on the choices you make, the steps you take, and the fight you're willing to show up for even when there's no applause.

Purpose isn't just personal—it's missional.

The greatest mistake people make is thinking purpose is just about them.

But real purpose?

It wakes you up at night not for your success... but because someone else is waiting on your obedience.

It pushes you to show up, even if you're tired. It challenges you to grow, because staying where you are can't help who you're called to reach. Purpose makes you uncomfortable—because comfort never changed the world.

We often think we need the “how” before we begin. But purpose doesn't wait on clarity. It waits on faith.

God doesn't give us the blueprint. He gives us the next step.

And that step is usually scary.

But if you can take it?

If you can move forward not knowing the full picture—that's where things begin to shift.

Purpose elevates value—ours and others’.

Think about it—when someone is living on purpose, you can feel it. They carry fire in their eyes. They speak differently. They walk with meaning. It’s not that their life is perfect—it’s that their life has direction.

And when someone is living with direction, it inspires others to find their own.

You don’t need all the answers to live with purpose.
You just need the willingness to say:

“Use me, Lord. I may not know everything. I may not have much. But what I do have—I’m ready to give.”

That right there?

That’s what changes families.

That’s what changes communities.

That’s what changes generations.

So... what’s YOUR purpose?

Maybe it’s helping others heal from pain you once knew too well.

Maybe it’s creating music, writing books, building systems, or starting businesses that solve problems people didn’t think had solutions.

Maybe it’s simply being that one person who never gave up—so others know they don’t have to either.

Whatever it is, you don’t have to have it all figured out.

You just have to start.

Because while you're waiting on a perfect moment, someone else is waiting on your obedience.

 Declaration:

I was created on purpose, for a purpose. I refuse to let fear, confusion, or the unknown keep me from becoming who I was born to be. My life is a light—and I will let it shine, not just for me, but for everyone I'm called to impact. I walk in obedience. I live with intention. I rise with purpose.

---

 Reader's Prayer:

Heavenly Father,

Thank You for placing purpose within me before I ever took my first breath. Forgive me for the times I doubted it, delayed it, or ran from it. Today, I choose to step into it. I surrender the “how” and trust You with the way forward. Use me for Your glory. Make my life matter. Let my journey spark hope in others. Give me the strength to walk in purpose—even when the path is unknown. I am ready, Lord. Let it begin.

In Jesus' Name,

Amen.
